

Marc Randolph

Silicon Valley Entrepreneur and Investor

CSA CELEBRITY SPEAKERS

Marc Randolph is a serial Silicon Valley entrepreneur, high tech executive and start-up consultant. He was co-founder of the online DVD rental service Netflix in 1997, serving as their founding CEO. Marc helped Netflix become an iconic name and revolutionised the "at home" movie entertainment industry. Since leaving Netflix, he has been an active investor and executive mentor for numerous early stage tech companies and currently sits on the boards of Bookrenter.com, ReadyForce and Schedulicity, amongst others.

"A highly successful start-up consultant"

In detail

Prior to founding Netflix, Marc was on the founding team of more than half a dozen other successful start-ups in the e-commerce, media, enterprise software and portable device markets. All of which went to IPQs or other liquidity events. A few of those companies included IntegrityQA, Visioneer, Microwarehouse and MacUser Magazine. Mark served on the board of directors at Netflix until his retirement from the company in 2004.

What he offers you

Marc advises executives in the areas of product marketing, product management and general management. He also helps executives to understand the challenges when starting new businesses and to make them successful.

How he presents

His successful career and charm make Marc Randolph a highly sought-after speaker at conferences around the world.

Languages

He presents in English.

Want to know more?

Give us a call or send us an e-mail to find out exactly what he could bring to your event.

How to book him?

Simply phone or e-mail us.